... Also a deep freeze?

American millionaire Barbara Hutton Troubetzkoy left Venice, Italy, for Switzerland for her health. The Woolworth dime-store heiress is reported recovering from serious illness, has just spent three weeks with husband Prince Troubetzkoy and 15-year-old son Truman.

Now Mrs. Bess Truman is in the Washington "influence industry" scandal. She is reported to have received one of the postwar time-the-time deep freeze units given free to high government officials by a Chicago perfume maker. Senate investigation committee is checking on just why the company gave away freezers, then selling for $200 in 1930 each.

Canada

Speculation was rife that a Dominion-provincial conference may yet become reality following conference in Montreal between Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis and federal Justice Minister Stuart Garson. It was Duplessis' second meeting with federal officials in 48 hours.

NEXT week financial talks to be held in Washington are "vital" as far as Canada's trade is concerned. That's the indication from the fact that Trade Minister C. D. Howe will be sent to accompany the Canadian delegation headed by Finance Minister Abbott. Delegates will attend from Canada, U.S., and Britain to work out the British dollar shortage.

Saskatchewan's anti-grasshopper campaign has been a success this year, government agriculture officials say. Main weakness in the campaign has been failure of farmers to make full use of anti-grasshopper tillage practices.

Religious Unrulyship Keeps One Calm

Average Person Need Not Be Agitated If Faith Followed

The Bulletin continues today publication of a condensation of the widely-accepted book, "A Guide to confident Living," by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Dr. Peale, noted Protestant minister, has been writing for the New York since 1932. He has achieved impressive results as a pastor by forging a link between religion and psychology to guide and soothe the masses and thousands of people, his principles for confident living will appear in 17 daily chapters.

By Norman Vincent Peale
CHAPTER 11

One important rule for being happy and successful is—don't let things agitate you. This is vital.

A doctor once told me what he had prescribed for a businessman who complained that his nerves were "all frazzled." "You don't need to be agitated or upset. Practice your religious faith," he suggested.

"Do you get many such cases and if so, what is your usual prescription?" I asked.

"Yes," he replied, "I have noted a pronounced nervousness in the emotional and nervous problems. Many patients become ill simply because of undue tension. It is prolonged agitation. But, except in cases where a definite physical cause exists, my belief is that the average person need not be agitated or nervous if he will take the medicine you patients hand out."

A physician stated recently that whereas 25 years ago only 10 per cent of stomach disorders, indigestion and affiliated maladies were due to nervous tension or agitation, people get sick largely because they cannot control and discipline their minds.

People often say that their nerves are "all shot to pieces." This is usually not so; very seldom are their nerves broken. The word "nerves" is simply a telephone wire from the brain to a given part of the body. The brain means when he says that his nerves are "all shot to pieces" is not that there is anything wrong with the actual nerve, but that the thoughts that stimulate the nerve are disturbed.

These agitated thoughts make it impossible for the brain to send orderly and controlled messages to the nerves so that contrary and uncertain messages go out over the nerve wires. The brain is in confusion because the thoughts are in confusion. Thus the nervous system tends to be in disorder. As a result one feels nervous, tense, tied-up and agitated.

honor a good deal and one learns a lot just by watching people. All you have to do is just to stand and listen. Think about the revolving doors and you will see what I mean. Why, for some men the chief cause of their nervousness is a spoiled child. "You mean it annoys them to have a complete revolution of the door?" I remonstrated.

"No, sir," he said, "I used to be that but now they are so tense, it annoys them to miss just one section. Something must be done or we are all going to be nervous wrecks."

pathetic victims of tensions and agitation. The failure lies in the fact that they have never learned how the simple and practical technique of Christianity may be applied to tension and agitation.

A man who is sick doesn't rush into a medical library and start desperately reading. He sits down and thinks. The doctor examines him and out of his knowledge of those medical books and long years of practice, writes the patient a prescription and gives simple advice to apply to his particular malady.

The patient takes the prescription to the drug store. He does not think he will be cured by subjecting himself to the aroma of all the medicines in the store. He follows specific instructions on the bottle or box. Religious practices should follow similar procedures. Diagnosis and specific applications of formula.

and children, wondering if they are going to get hurt."

I gave him a prescription, a little formula to practice. "Just say to yourself, 'Let my house burn.' Is your house insured?" I asked.

"Yes, it is."

"Well, I continued, 'say to yourself, 'Let it burn. Also say, 'I will my wife and children in God's hands. He will take care of them.' You must learn a simple technique you must have the naive genius to follow the greatest of all thinkers who told us the answers to life's problems lie in the childlike or simple attitudes."

"Good," I said, "Imagine that Jesus Christ is actually by your side. When you are in a jam, stop and say, 'Lord, you are with me; everything is all right.' When you go into a restaurant even if you are with somebody, pull up a chair and ostentatiously and imagine that Jesus Christ sits in that chair."

People Urged To Relax

A man came to our church clinic complaining of severe nervousness. He was a manufacturer and was under great stress. He drummed his fingers on my desk as he talked.

"Why are you drumming your fingers?" I asked.

"I didn't even know I was drumming them," he replied in some surprise.

"Well," I suggested, "don't drum your fingers. Just let your hand rest on the table in a limp and relaxed manner." I saw that he was sitting rigidly on the edge of his chair so I urged, "Sit back and relax."

"In what other ways does your nervousness manifest itself?" I inquired.

"I worry about my business all the time. Every time I am away I worry whether my house is going to burn down or something happen to it. I worry about my wife."

Use Your Imagination

"When you walk down the street, imagine that you can hear his faint, low, hissing sound. See his face. When you retire at night, pull up a chair by the bed and imagine that he is sitting on the chair. Then before you turn out the light have a word with him and say, 'Lord, I am sorry for I know that you are watching over me and will give me peace.'"

"Oh," he protested, "that sounds foolish."

"It is merely a simple psychological device to make you feel the presence of Christ and I have had a great many people use it with excellent results," he explained.

He came back to see me not so long ago. He did not drum his fingers. He sat evenly in his chair. There was no nervousness. There was a new look on his face. "You feel better?" I suggested.

"Yes, I do, yes, I do. He hesitated then said, 'I should like to say something to you. You know that business about Christ sitting in clouds and waiting for the faithful? I said, 'I recall my advice. "Well," he said rather hesitantly, "you know I don't know whether there is something to it—I believe it is right. There is something to it."

It was learned that Henderson arrived at the residence of the car owner about 12:30 a.m., three hours after he ran away from the auto camp. Henderson told his friend that his own car had broken down, and he needed one for a "big deal."

The friend drove him downtown to a garage, and was planning to accompany Henderson, but the latter wanted man to loan to borrow the car, and for a loan of $10, Henderson then drove his friend back home, and left in the car alone.

Police said the young woman died from shock, resulting from the beating received about 11 p.m. A man's belt, found in the cabin, is being held as evidence, as a possible murder weapon.

The murdered woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Levesque, of Pincher Creek, and a brother and sister arrived in Calgary yesterday at police headquarters for an hour.

They refused any statement to the press.

There has been too much publicity over the case, they said. Inspector Clements said the Levesque family was well-adjusted, and Henderson was a good man. Levesque was planning to be married shortly.

Since arriving in Calgary from Edmonton, she had been employed as a waitress at the Carolina Coffee Shop, 220 St. P. St. Henderson registered at the Ingleside auto camp on Aug. 2, and had been there since.

Henderson registered at the Ingleside auto camp on Aug. 2, and had been there since. It was first thought, Thursday night, that both he and Miss Levesque had preferred to remain in the investigation of the office records showed that he alone had been in the car on the night of the murder.

Miss Levesque was residing with an uncle, Oscar Primeau, 445 7th Ave. E.

REFUSE STATEMENT

Police were first notified of the incident at 9:35 p.m. Thursday when Mrs. Delbert Miller, clerk at the auto camp phoned to say that a woman had been injured in one of the cabins.

Police hinted yesterday that the possibility that Henderson might not take place in the cabin. Residents of surrounding cabins, and the office at the rear of the building, said they heard no sounds of a struggle.

Police would be picked up if he did not give himself up. A thorough description of the man was obtained from the detective and office staff at the auto camp. A circular was being prepared at police headquarters, and RCMP in

Supply Cut

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 13.—(UPI)—Greek government troops attempting to trap 7,000 guerrillas in the Vitol pocket near the Yugoslav border have cut the rebels' supply line to Albania, it was announced today.

A General Staff communique on the three-day-old summer offensive said that the highway serving guerrilla forces in Greece has been brought under the fire of government machine guns and artillery.

Greek government dive bombers were reported yesterday to have attacked a convoy of 25 trucks bringing munitions and troops into Greece from Albania.

The government attack not only cut the guerrillas' main source of supply but also sealed off their best route of retreat to the haven of Albania.

Government troops are attempting to drive the guerrillas into a trap against the Yugoslav border, which Marshal Tito has closed because of his battle with the communist-dominated Greek guerrilla leaders.

Police hinted yesterday that the possibility that Henderson might not take place in the cabin. Residents of surrounding cabins, and the office at the rear of the building, said they heard no sounds of a struggle.

Airforce Completes North Mercy Flight

Albert Brisson, 36, farmer of the Fort St. John district was rushed by RCAF mercy plane to Edmonton early this morning.

He suffered undetermined spinal injuries when he slipped while carrying a bag of flour.

Brisson, married and father of three children, was temporarily employed with the Alaska Highway maintenance crew at Mile 136.

Dr. L. Komar, superintendent of Providence Hospital at Fort St. John, reported that the accident occurred late Thursday and that the victim sustained a partial paralysis from a severe wrench which dislocated a spinal disc which is bringing pressure on the cord.

Brought to Providence hospital by ambulance, the doctor attempted to get immediate plane transportation without success, eventually appealing to the RCAF at Edmonton.

Four members of 435 Squadron RCAF left last night at 8:30, picked up the patient and Dr. Komar, arriving this morning at 2:15 where the injured man was taken to University Hospital by RCAF ambulance.

Crew of the mercy flight included PO Mel Bryan, co-pilot PO Tene Arnold, TO Bruce Kinsell, wireless operator, and LAC D. W. Campbell.

The patient is still under observation at the hospital.

Busy Bee Not Very Busy So Honey Crop Smaller

By Dave Gross

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13—(CP)—The Canadian bee isn't buzzing around as much this year as last, so the honey crop will be smaller.

However, the large surplus left over from last year will assure the consumer of an almost-normal honey market.

Frank R. Garland, president of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council, said in an interview that "adverse weather conditions in Ontario—the chief honey producing province—and drastic curtailment in Western Canada indicate a crop of only 50-60 per cent of normal."

They only took over about 3,500,000 pounds, however, because a large amount of the honey was already in small containers.

Production of honey in Canada last year totalled 45,000,000 pounds—15,000,000 from Ontario, Alberta ranked next with about 10,000,000, while Manitoba had 7,000,000 pounds. Saskatchewan produced 6,000,000 while the rest was from Quebec, British Columbia and the Maritimes.

SURPLUS LAST YEAR

Production in Western Canada has been curtailed largely because of the surplus left over from last year.

Also, many districts in Western Canada have an apparent shortage of sweet clover, the principal honey plant. Mr. Garland said that the "drastic curtailments which we've had will affect all agriculture."

As well as producing honey, the bees aid farmers through pollination of various plants.

MAIN EXPORTERS

Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba are the main exporting provinces.

"We have just gone through the most difficult adjustment period and I don't believe the Canadian government which bought up honey supplies last year, will disrupt our market," Mr. Garland said.

The government still has the honey bought last year in storage, and he felt it will probably keep it there until it can be sold without hurting Canadian beekeepers.

U.S. White Paper On China Rapped

Reds Say Paper Confesses
Aggression Policy Failure

By Seymour Topping

NANKING, Aug. 13—(AP)—The United States' white paper was labelled by the Chinese Communists today as a confession of failure by the American government of a policy of "interference and aggression" in China.

In the first official reaction, the Communist Hsinhua news agency said the whole world benefitted by the white paper's publication because it exposed "an insatiable American desire for interference and aggression in the affairs of others."

State Secretary Dean Acheson's statement of five basic principles that will guide American relations with China was described as providing for "continuation of further aggressive policy."

The editorial referred to Acheson's first point this way: "The American government wishes to take every possible step to entangle the Chinese people which tends to make China an American colony so that in international relations the Chinese will act as an American satellite."

"This referred to Acheson's proposal to aid the Chinese people to throw off 'the foreign yoke' of the Red regime. The white paper termed the present Chinese government a dismal failure in the war with Communism."

The editorial was carried in Nanking's controlled press, which previously made no reference to the white paper. The press also carried a short digest of the white paper. This was interspersed with official Communist explanatory notes.

Drivers' Tests Essential

The Edmonton police department has stated baldly that incompetent drivers are responsible for the alarming increase in the city's traffic accidents during 1949. Since that is the only possible means of alleviating this hazardous situation is the immediate institution of drivers' tests by the provincial government.

It is impossible to understand why this obviously necessary step has not been taken long since.

The police department backs up its complaint against incompetent drivers by pointing out that during the first seven months of this year there have been 13 persons killed in traffic in Edmonton, 146 injured and 1,450 accidents involving damage in excess of $75.

During the same period last year, only three persons were killed and 105 injured. There were only 1,247 accidents involving damage of more than $25.

The police point out that this year they are not listing accidents involving less than $75 because if the list were based on $25 accidents it would be too long to deal with.

The department is doing a good job of checking traffic infractions. About 1,300 summonses have been issued for serious offences. Nearly 25,000 have been issued for parking violations. Court penalties have been stiffened. Licenses are being suspended for periods up to a year.

Now the city can do a great deal towards easing the traffic situation by creating new aerial highways, building railway underpasses, erecting synchronized traffic lights and revising the entire system of streets.

All these are urgent and necessary. But the best traffic system in the world cannot deal adequately with the incompetent driver, who the police say, is to blame for most of the accidents.

Only drivers' tests will weed these incompetents out.

The next move seems to be up to the provincial government.

The Thrill That Comes Once in A Lifetime By Webster

Letters to the Editor

Chance

For Co-ops

Editor, Bulletin.—A timely

article in the Edmonton Bulletin of August 5th set out a very important problem about Canadian iron ore.

The facts are that we are in debt to the U.S. now to the tune of billions; that as we go further and further into debt each year, they take over more and more of our most profitable industries and natural resources in payment.

In the highly profitable manufacturing industry, they have producing electrical supplies or automobiles these are foreign owned.

It is so also with our richest natural resources such as nickel, aluminum, oil, etc. Canadians do the work and get the wages, but the profits go out of Canada either chiefly or entirely. The idea of a Canadian industry standing up to U.S. industry in the competitive field is no more than a Canadian farmer with horses raising wheat as cheaply on one quarter section as a farmer with big machinery raising 12½¢ of their oil as royalty. U.S.

industry has ten times the home markets we have.

There is a long list of however Canada could stand up to the U.S. or the world. The little Canadian arms plant of Regina has stood up against the world's biggest monopolies of the world.

If a Canadian wishes to invest some of his income in development of co-op oil, he must pay his income tax in full and on his living allowance. But if he lives in the U.S. and his wealth constituted in Canadian shares, a U.S. owned oil company, his income tax would not have to be paid. He could go toward oil exploration.

Then when a U.S. company finds oil, by means of the money which a Canadian co-operator would have to pay in income tax,

the Alberta government takes 12½¢ of their oil as royalty. But the Regina co-op pays 62½¢.

I say Canada with 1/10th of the population of the U.S. is unable to meet the U.S. successfully in the competitive field. But in the co-op field Canada could do so if the authorities of the dominion and of the province just had sense enough to give them an equal chance.

Let's Stop

The Abuse

Editor, Bulletin.—Isn't it about time to call a halt to all this stupid commotion started because one Britisher wrote a letter when he was obviously feeling "fed up and far from home."

Three it was a miserable letter, but this is free country and he should be allowed to say what he wishes without being subjected to so much abuse. A country is hard to get used to and we aren't always as helpful

as we could be to newcomers.

Everything is so different and maybe a little understanding and tolerance would have meant two words would never have been written.

For you "A Veteran" you really figured you had a right to raise Cain (your expression) in Britain because a very few and scrupulous people shot changed

you. You started your letter by accusing some of having two year-old mentality, but with such an outlook I hate to think what you must be. Didn't anyone treat you well over there? Most of the veterans I know enjoyed their hospitality and agree that most of the raising Cain was done by a small minority of Canadians who were usually too drunk to know what they were saying.

We're a mixture of races and religions but working together can do a great deal. It is time that we should be a truly great nation. I'll need a great deal of time, though, unless we stop getting so worked up over one little letter.

So, let's leave the poor guy alone. He'll either get over his ideas and decide Canada's great after all or he'll go back to Britain and continue his beefing avenue?

Now, let's stop mud slinging, and try a little encouragement

instead.

Europe Assembly Rejects Irish Bid

Show Of Hands Turns Down Call For Partition Debate

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 13—(AP)—By an overwhelming show of hands, the Council of Europe's Assembly today rejected an attempt by the Republic of Ireland to call up for debate the Irish partition problem.

Noted Author Is Improving After Mishap

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 13—(UP)—Margaret Mitchell, Pulitzer prize-winning author who was struck by an automobile Thursday night, "appears to be improving" and has been taken out of the hospital, physicians at Grady Hospital said today.

She still is not fully conscious, however, but her husband, John Marsh, said she was "definitely better." He added that he was "greatly encouraged" by the doctors' report.

TEMPERATURE DROP

The nurses tell me she responds to some extent when they speak to her," he said.

Hospital attaches said her temperature had dropped from 102 to 100 degrees.

Miss Mitchell, 43, author of "Gone With the Wind," was struck down while walking across Peachtree Street with her husband. He was not injured. The driver of the car, Hugh D. Gravit, 29, was charged with drunken driving. Until it is ascertained whether the exact extent of her injuries will not be known, Dr. George F. Downman, Atlanta brain specialist, and other hospital attaches believe she suffered a basal skull fracture and internal injuries. It was known that she had a brain concussion and an injured leg.

A police guard ward off reporters, photographers and curiosity-seekers from the section of the hospital where the author was being treated. Members of the family retained an adjoining room and no one else was admitted.

20 Million Germans May Cast Ballots

By ROBERT HAEGER
FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 13 (UPI)—West German political leaders predicted today that more than 20,000,000 residents of the three western zones will go to the polls tomorrow in the first free German parliamentary election since 1933.

The election will choose the 400 members of the lower house (Bundestag) of the parliament of the new "federal republic of Germany."

The campaign ended with strong denunciations of the allies, following a pattern which has prevailed throughout the four weeks campaign.

Communist party (KPD), Max Reimann told 10,000 listeners here last night that all the occupation powers should get out in a hurry and leave Germany alone.

One of his top lieutenants, Emil Carlebach, writing in a party election pamphlet, accused the Allies of drafting displaced persons to heckle and embarrass speakers at Communist party rallies.

Konrad Adenauer, chief of the Christian Democrats (CDU) and long-time co-worker with the western allies, has been a severe critic during the scramble for votes. Last night he wound up a swing through Trizina with an address over a Cologne radio station.

Ship Mystery Being Probed

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 13 (UPI)—A shipping mystery as deep as the sea was under investigation today by RCMP officers in the discovery of the wreck of an abandoned 35-foot fishing vessel.

The vessel was found half-submerged 13 miles west of Chetcamp, her one-cylinder engine out of order.

The ship was completely outfitted with fishing gear in order, RCMP said. No bodies were located.

Investigators found only a grey cap in the cabin.

The name of the ship was hidden beneath a coat of white paint or scratched off the woodwork, investigators said.

Marine insurance companies in Halifax said no vessel answering the description of the abandoned fish cruiser had been reported lost or stolen recently. She could have drifted to the position off Chetcamp from anywhere along the eastern Canadian seaboard, they added.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, Saturday, Aug. 13, 1949
NHA DESIGN - OF - THE - MONTH

Economy, convenience and livability are apparent in the design of this attractive two-bedroom bungalow which should appeal particularly to small families eager to build but who must keep a careful eye on construction costs.

By reducing hall areas to a minimum and raising maximum use of all available space, the architect has achieved a floor plan which offers conveniently located and good-sized rooms. The kitchen provides an adequate area for domestic use and adjoins the living room which includes a dining alcove. Both bedrooms have ample closet space and privacy is assured by their complete separation from the remainder of the house.

The rectangular shape of the house and the back-to-back plumbing arrangement for the kitchen and bathroom are factors which result in substantial savings in construction costs.

The entrance to the house is protected by a flat roof which could be extended to form a sun shade over the dining alcove window. A coat closet is located off the vestibule.

As the gable end of the house faces the street, this house is particularly adaptable to a narrow lot. While wood finish has been used on the house illustrated, brick veneer, stucco or any other desired outside finish could be used. Outside dimensions are 30 feet by 24 feet four inches and the area, for estimating purposes, is 730 square feet.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design 49-34, are available from any office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

ECA Aid Program Goes Into Africa

Sleeping Sickness, Malaria Big Economic Obstacles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(CP)—The Marshall Plan has reached into British Africa and British Guiana in its drive to restore the economy of Europe.

Colonial development is part of the Economic Co-operation Administration's technical assistance program. The idea is that more industrial know-how and up-to-date agricultural methods in the colonies will hasten the rehabilitation of British herself.

CANADIAN DIRECTOR
ECA consultant on colonial improvement is Canadian-born Dr. Isiah Bowman, retired president of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

He is a native of Waterloo, Ont., but moved to the United States with his family at an early age. Dr. Bowman, now 70, is famous as a geographer, author, scientist and teacher. He has been called the United States' leading expert on geogr. hy.

Four colonial projects are under way. The first, announced last April, sent United States health expert and an insecticide expert to make a survey of conditions affecting control of sleeping sickness and malaria in East and West Africa.

DISEASE OBSTACLE
Prevalence of sleeping sickness and malaria probably is the chief obstacle to development of potentially rich mineral and agricultural lands in dependent African areas, ECA said.

Another African project is helping British make a survey in connection with a proposed railway

Alleged Thug Freed On Bail

VANCOUVER, Aug. 13.—(CP)—Bail of $5,000 was set in police court yesterday for Anthony Schloesser, 35, charged with armed robbery in connection with the holdup of a Dunbar district bank last Saturday.

The garage-owner was charged after being identified last night by employees of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch as one of two gunmen who staged the holdup, exacting with $6,100 in cash and travellers' cheques.

The second gunman still is being sought by police.

FALSE NAME HITS BACK AT JUVENILE

SUNDERLAND, England, Aug. 13.—(CP)—An 11-year-old boy caught damaging an apple tree gave police the false name of "John Wilson." In juvenile court, the boy was told: "Don't you realize that someone else may have had to stand in this court for your offence? Never use a false name again, especially John Wilson." This lecture to the lad was given by the Magistrates' clerk, John Wilson.

Irish Patriot Dies In Dublin At 77

DUBLIN, Aug. 13.—(AP)—An Irish patriot and former diplomat, died today. O'Brien served as the Republic of Ireland's minister to France and Belgium from 1933 to 1938.

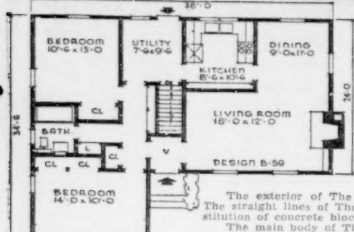

He was a leader of the Irish self-determination League of Great Britain during and after the First World War.

All Sign Pact Except France

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Ambassador E. N. Van Kliefden yesterday deposited at the State Department the Netherlands government's ratification of the North Atlantic Treaty.

Only the ratification of France now has to be deposited to bring the treaty into force. The French ratification is expected here next week.

There are no land areas lower than 3,540 feet above sea level in Colorado.

THE BELVIEW has a combination living-dining room which forms a comfortable L-shaped room, with three exposures looking to the front, side and rear of the house. The small, well-arranged, compact kitchen has a cabinet on the end wall. The rear entrance of The Belview opens into a small utility room, convenient to the kitchen, from which the basement stairs lead.

The front and rear entrances of The Belview are connected by the centre hall which also gives access to all rooms. There is a coat closet in the hall as well as a 7-foot long storage cabinet.

There is cross light and ventilation in all the bedrooms. The bedrooms are also equipped with large wardrobes with storage space above.

The exterior of The Belview is of frame construction with siding. The straight lines of The Belview make it easily adaptable to the substitution of concrete blocks or brick veneer for the frame.

The main body of The Belview is 38 feet wide and 34 feet deep. It has 1,800 square feet with 100 cubic feet.

For further information about THE BELVIEW, write The Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

1950 Events Prophesied By Old Moore's Almanac

By Robert Musel

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Old Moore's Almanac gave its millions of subscribers an advance peek at 1950 today.

It will be quite a year, according to the famed almanac which has been confidently predicting the future since Dr. Francis Moore first published his "Prophetic Hieroglyphic Engravings" in 1697.

On the one hand the soothsayers predict increasing incitement by Russia, assassinations in South America and attempted assassinations in Yugoslavia, India, Africa, trouble in Ireland over partition, and similar conflicts.

And on the other hand good crops, excellent food prospects, a royal engagement or marriage (Princess Margaret?) and—if you bet on horses—watch an outsider carrying blue colors in the Cambridge handicap in October.

READY FOR SKEPTICS
As usual Old Moore's is ready for the skeptics and scoffers who hint and sometimes state flatly that his prophecies are only guesswork. This year it points out that in the past it:

Forecasted the winner of the 1940 Lincoln Handicap (Fair Judge) predicted the recent Lynxkey Tribunal late Allied ministerial bribery, Hitler's seizure of Austria, the abdication of Edward VIII and numerous other events.

It does not point out that it missed quite a few predictions during the same period.

ADJUSTMENT YEAR
Old Moore called 1949 the year of recovery. It calls 1950 the year of adjustment. And just as you will be prepared, here's what it says is in store:

Russia starts the year with conciliatory gestures and January looks hopeful except for a Communist resurgence in Japan. In February the western powers could shoulder Russia's overtures and a royal romance springs into flower. March 15 will be a bad day for some per-

COOLING IS NOT SO HOT

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Philip Lida today boasted New York's swiftest cooling—15 minutes—but it cost him nearly $2,000.

A gunman walked into Lida's butcher shop, took $975 in cash and a $1,000 diamond ring and locked Lida in the walk-in refrigerator. Lida beat on the door with a cleaver until help came.

Cairo Centres Middle East Illegal Bullion Traffic

CAIRO, Aug. 13 — (Reuters) — The narrow, winding, dirty, cobbled lanes of Cairo's centuries-old Sagha district have become the Middle East's clearing house for the illegal million-dollar gold and silver traffic to the Far East. The Sagha, adjoining the famed Moukky bazaars, is the main bullion market of the Middle East. Behind wooden counters in small shops, an estimated $60,000,000 worth of gold and more than $1,000,000 worth of silver is sold each year. Gold and silver funnel into Cairo's markets from neighboring Levantine countries, but ingots also find their way from The Netherlands, Italy and Switzerland.

NO RESTRICTION Until a few months ago, there was no restriction on these imports, but now the government permits imports only from sterling areas. All exports are banned but there is no government control over local merchants' activities.

Despite the ban, considerable quantities of gold are smuggled out, mainly to India and the Far East, where gold brings the highest prices in the world. Since India barred gold imports two years ago, Bombay prices took an upward swing, giving added incentive to smugglers. The British gold sovereign is perhaps the most popular with smugglers because it is easy to conceal and is universally accepted at a medium of exchange. Its intrinsic value at the Cairo Sagha is about $14.70 but because of the demand on government control over local merchants' activities. Apart from sales destined for the

U.K. Reportedly To Request Help

Appeal Expected At Early Meeting With U.S., Canada

LONDON, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Fresh assistance, in a form other than direct dollar advances, probably will be sought by the United Kingdom when it confers in Washington next month with financial representatives of Canada and the United States.

The feeling has grown here that dollar credits, while helping to carry Europe through an awkward reconstruction period, will not solve the essential problem in trade between the dollar area and the rest of the world.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, intimated at a press conference following his talks with other commonwealth finance ministers that a line of thought was emerging as far as a long-term solution was concerned.

DELICATE HINT His hint was delicate and he did not expand it before leaving for a prolonged course of medical treatment in Switzerland.

Although some business men here claim their products already are priced properly, the government probably will cite its efforts to lower costs.

CHEAP PRODUCTION Its representatives have studied American production methods with the intention of introducing improvements here whenever feasible, and in co-operation with the Trades Union Congress it has preached the gospel of cheap production tirelessly to working forces.

Through official missions and by encouraging private traders, the government has made an intensive study of the North American market. There is still much criticism of British sales methods, however, particularly with regard to manufacturers who can find easier outlets in non-dollar areas.

smuggling trade, much of the precious metals sold in Cairo passes into the hands of the Fellahs—peasants—who, after selling their crops, invest their earnings in jewelry which they hide in their primitive homes rather than trust banks.

One expert here estimates there is $600,000,000 worth of gold in private hands in Egypt today. The price rise of Egyptian cotton and wheat has considerably increased the demand for precious jewelry in Egypt since the end of the war.

A useful tip for the amateur gardener is to choose varieties of vegetables, flowers and shrubs which are recommended for the district in which he lives.

These remarks seemed to call for a free market in dollar countries for the goods of Europe and the sterling area, possibly through a reduction in tariffs, and a foreign investment program by Canada and the United States.

British representatives no doubt will be told in Washington that they must try to expand their exports through their own efforts; that is, that prices must fall to a more competitive level.

Although some business men here claim their products already are priced properly, the government probably will cite its efforts to lower costs.

ROCKET BURSTS 2. The comedy film. We see a skyrocket race across the screen and burst before us. "It's a howl!" another explosion. "It's a riot!" Repeat boom. "It's funny." The scenes include the hero without his pants and the heroine doing a prat fall.

3. The outdoor epic. The trailer begins with four cowboys racing their horses across a fire-engine red dawn on the plains. Then come the words, painted in blood:

"Ripped from their horses by white-man guns. Also a tender scene between the hero and Chuck-Wagon Sue. (The good trailer) always establishes the romantic interest for the female trade).

4. Ah, if pictures were always as good as their trailers. Hollywood would have no problems.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Don't you love movie trailers? You know what trailers are—the "previews of coming attractions" that try to lure you back to the theatre next week. I have long admired them and the men that make them.

These lucky men live in a world where every picture is a hit. It is a land of many gods—Lusty Ladd, Luscious Lana, Screwball Skelton, Fearless Flynn, etc. All are "never better" in every picture they appear in.

Let us analyze the nature of the trailer. I'll pick three main types at random:

LOUD ORCHESTRA

1. The prestige picture. A symphony orchestra plays loudly and words began to appear at the bottom of the screen. The lines roll upwards slowly, giving even ten-year-olds plenty of time to read them as it says:

Miracle pictures (fanfare) Proudly presents A great achievement Of the American Screen

The stars are referred to as "Mr. and Mrs. There is a scene from the picture showing the hero slapping the heroine. Also clips for the climax catastrophe (earthquake, fire or flood), described as "the greatest thrill ever filmed."

QUEEN OF FLOCK on Central Experimental Farm near Ottawa will be less haughty once wool collar disappears. Her descendants will provide Canadians with high quality wool and meat. Ottawa feels that what has been done with wheat can be done with sheep and distinctively Canadian brand produced.

THIS SHEEP SEEMS content to let John Cavanaugh take his coat to provide suit for businessman, or coat for milady. Reputation of Canadian woolen goods is growing, and more such raw material would be welcomed.

POSING WITH QUEEN in another before and after picture is Miss Frances Kerr, of Ottawa. Her plaid jacket is example of what can be done with wool provided by good sheep. With Canada no longer seeking high quality wool, woolen country can use more wool.

Sheep Breeding Attempts May Increase Products

Federal government experts are currently conducting experiments in sheep breeding destined to at least slow down the alarming increase in the number of sheep on Canadian farms.

The experiments, still in the early stages, are an attempt to produce a sheep that will produce a maximum of both wool and meat.

Production of a considered type of animal that can give the Canadian farmer will better wool and meat may be the answer to dwindling herds.

Farmers and textile producers are naturally watching with keen interest the work at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa.

Youth Draws Jail Sentence

Pleas and tears will not erase a police record, a young criminal learned yesterday in police court.

Robert Dolanichuk, 21, of Edmonton failed to cry his way out of a three-month sentence imposed by Judge H. J. Macdonald.

The young man was charged with breaking and entering, and with possession of stolen goods.

Macdonald said to the accused: "You are given your chance, you break faith with us, we lose patience with you." He continued.

HOT COPPER FORGIVES THIS UNCLAD STROLL

UNCLAD STROLL: Miss Aug. 12.—(UP)—It was hot, yes, but Policeman Arnold Doyle looked twice when he saw a man walk across the street clad only in his skin and a pair of slippers.

He followed the man into a cafe and watched him collect $25 from a patron. Then Doyle started to ask questions.

It seems the near-nude stroller is one of the customers, he would have a word with the owner, Doyle let him go.

Doyle was hot, too.

Works of Late Briton Will Show In Canada

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(CP)—More than 50 works by Paul Nash, British artist who died three years ago, are en route to Canada for a six-month tour.

To be shown in Ottawa at the National Gallery, of whose trustees the British Council assembled the exhibition, the oils, water colors and prints, therefore will visit Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Seven art galleries and museums are showing the exhibition.

Nash's work, which between the wars avoided any introduction of the human form into his painting, as "An empty room, a landscape, a landscape in complete freedom of bodily action and, above everything, in a sense."

GREAT MODERN He is ranked as one of the greatest moderns in the representation of space and clouds.

Critics have said that Nash "knew the language of inanimate nature," and that his paintings, by drawing symbolic analogies, "were starting points for speculation without ruling the subjects of their reality."

In addition, Nash was an industrial designer. He had held that "the whole machinery of life is the concern of the artist." He designed tea cups and pens, bookends and advertising posters.

He died in Johannesburg July 11, 1946.

Everything But Radar To Guard Gangster

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(UP)—Mickey Cohen's Brentwood mansion is protected by "lights, electric eyes" and a building, but definitely not by radar.

That was the official word today from Inspector H. J. Stratten of the Federal Communications Commission, who said it is forbidden to use radar for the purpose of guarding a private property.

A radar beam on a building would be a violation of the Federal Communications Commission's rules, which prohibit the use of radar for the purpose of guarding a private property.

on the TOWN

By J. D.

We have a tendency to smile in pity over Calgary claiming to be the oil capital of Alberta. Wonder if we're so bright after all up here in Edmonton.

Calgary businessmen are smart enough to look after oil people in a way that is appreciated. They see that oil companies have offices when and where they want them.

Then Calgary can provide hotel accommodation for visiting oil officials. That's more than we can brag about.

No wonder Calgary boasts of being the centre of the oil trade in the province even at Edmonton.

The oil companies are smart enough to look after oil people in a way that is appreciated. They see that oil companies have offices when and where they want them.

The party of 25 travelled in three twin-engine company-owned aircraft.

On Wednesday they flew from Calgary to Edmonton airport, went on a motor tour of the Redwater oil field and then took off for Calgary that evening.

EXPENSIVE SLEEPING

Why? Because they had to have some place to sleep. Calgary could provide the party with good hotel accommodation. Edmonton could not.

Next day the Gulf party returned to Edmonton by air for a luncheon meeting.

Do you know how much these extra flights from Edmonton to Calgary and back cost?

I discussed with an airline company employee in Edmonton the approximate costs for the party.

Distance between Calgary and Edmonton is roughly about 200 miles. That makes $600 each way for a total of $1,200. That's expensive sleeping over for oil company officials, isn't it?

OFFICIAL TOWN DRUNK was Bulletin reporter Stan Burke last night—and all in the interest of science. Reporter allowed himself to be talked into accepting 10 ounces of liquor to demonstrate working of drunkometer at last night's demonstration by American experia Chief Justice Harry Porter and Lieut. Frank M. Andrews Jr., both of Evanston, Ill. Here Burke blows up balloon. Breath will be run through portable laboratory to test alcohol content.

I was the town drunk tonight. And it's all in the public service, in the interests of science, and in line of duty.

This is the sort of thing which makes boys run away from home to become newspapermen.

I allowed myself to be persuaded to be the ginny-pig for the testing of the drunkometer at the public meeting tonight.

I do not normally drink (except when alone or in company of others). But being as how this is in the interests of science, I decided to try it.

Only bull fiddle player in the Edmonton "Pops" orchestra at Wednesday night's concert was George McBride, 11119-84 avenue. He's been playing the bass viol for the past 40 years, which makes him something of a veteran in city music circles.

Woodwind players in the Edmonton "Pops" orchestra are few and far between. One of city's best is flautist and piccolo player Harlan Green, who studies at the Toronto Royal Conservatory during winter. The 19-year-old musician lives with parents on farm near Dewberry, 120 miles east of Edmonton, comes here for bimonthly "Pops" concerts.

Percussion men with Conductor Lee Homer's "Pops" orchestra are William Timms, 9739-107 street, trap drummer, and Murray Pawling, 141 Hull Block, who plays kettledrums. Timms started playing with Schoolboys' Band when it originated; Pawling admits somewhat dubiously he "joined the Musicians' Union in 1922."

Giving all they had were vocalists Verna Weaver, mezzo soprano, and Don Walmaley, baritone. They, like the rest of the "Pops" program, were applauded heartily by the audience. Next and last "Pops" concert plays Aug. 24, when Miss Weaver and Mr. Walmaley join with soloists of past concerts to present an all-star program.

Top Western Musician Boosts Canada Talent

By Dick Sherbanik

A westerner who made good is 45-year-old Geoffrey Waddington, musical adviser to the CBC and well-known throughout Canada as an orchestra conductor.

But the former Lethbridge violinist—there is no trouble finding good Canadian talent and the competition is very keen in the eastern provinces—has a musical career as prominent as his.

BROAD EDUCATION
After studying in Lethbridge, Mr. Waddington went to the Toronto Conservatory.

There, he met some local radio and concert work, including singing at the University of Alberta.

Conductor Lee Homer said this week that the last "Pops" concert "looks like a sellout." Music lovers began arriving for tickets right after Wednesday's concert.

ton, is "pretty awful." "In Canada, we get the pick of the American radio shows... but go to the U.S. and sit for a whole day and listen!" He practically begs you.

Mr. Waddington said that if you've got a good voice teacher, the voice thing to do is to stay here until you get a good recording.

And this concert work is being brought up here by subscription series. That's why they are so popular with Geoffrey Waddington.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT
One way the CBC is "educating" the people is through its Wednesday night broadcasts of classical music.

Even that met some opposition in the CBC music section when first proposed. It was discussed a year before the first show was broadcast.

But the response has been tremendous. Designed for a minority audience, those listeners who like good music, the Wednesday night show has been acclaimed "beyond expectations." Often reviewed in the New York Times, the show has a tremendous U.S. listening audience, and is the envy of many American radio stations.

FIRST-RATE TALENT
But nevertheless, Canada is developing some first-rate talent, according to the CBC musical adviser.

City Songstress Gets Radio Show

September Start Planned For Half-Hour Of Lieder

Edmonton lyric soprano Naomi Wershof wants to get into radio work.

And her first big chance comes up in September, when she will be featured in a CBC broadcast from Montreal.

The 26-year-old city singer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Elliot Wershof, 10340 121 street, is back home for a three-week holiday.

For the past two years, she has been studying music in Montreal, where her voice teacher is Madame Sarah Fischer, well-known in Eastern Canada and a former European concert artist.

Miss Wershof has been giving small recitals in Montreal since her debut recital last March, when she appeared in one of Madame Fischer's famous recitals designed to introduce new artists to the public.

She received her diploma with distinction this spring.

Recently, she's been attending the famous Berkshire festival in Massachusetts (which had conductors Serge Koussevitzky and Leonard Bernstein this year), and considered it "a very wonderful experience."

Miss Wershof returns to Montreal early in September, to prepare for her half-hour CBC broadcast which will be mainly lieder songs.

Considering her CBC opportunity is getting to be "a hot item," she said in an interview.

Now she has her diploma, she is going to try her hand at concert work, but is particularly interested in radio.

And she intends to stay in Canada.

Naomi started singing at the age of 13 as a hobby, attended the University of Alberta and then went to the Royal Toronto Conservatory.

From there, she went to the University of Toronto.

She did some local radio and concert work, including singing at the University of Alberta.

10 TOP CONDUCTORS PICK RECORD ALBUM

Ten of the world's leading conductors have named compositions which each considers ideal starting choices for a record library.

Conductors, who made their selections for House Beautiful magazine, were Eugene Ormandy, Erich Leinsdorf, Serge Koussevitzky, Leopold Stokowski, Eafien Savitzky, Hans Schweiger, Arthur Fiedler, George Szell, Efron Kurtz and Vladimir Golschmann.

Five of the conductors chose the following: Bach's Brandenburg Concertos, Beethoven's Symphony No. 5, Brahms' Symphony Nos. 1 and 4, Debussy's "La Mer."

These compositions received four votes each: Mozart's Symphony No. 40, Strauss' "Bil Eulenspiegel," Stravinsky's "Le Sacre du Printemps," Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 6, Wagner's "Tristan Prelude."

They were all active in this summer's series of Gilbert and Sullivan productions over CBC and William Morton has been chosen to sing the leading role in CBC's production of Benjamin Britten's opera Peter Grimes this fall.

But they don't bemoan their fate over the air, instead they discuss and exchange their favorite recitals in the hopes that other men in the profession may take heed and keep themselves well-fed while the wife's away.

RCAF Band Plans Sunday P.M. Concert

Edmontonians will be able to sit in the shade and hear the RCAF band at Victoria Park tomorrow.

Beginning at 3 p.m., the Air Force band will present a park concert under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The program will include: "Colonel Bogey On Parade," "Tossin' and Turnin'," "Lover's Lane," "Dottie Polka," duet by trombonists Horrocks and Kerr; Strauss' "A Hunting Scene"; Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz"; Camarata's "Humboldt"; Sousa's "Semper Parado"; "Army of the Nile"; selection of Cole Porter songs; "American Patrol"; "Crushing Down the River"; an old-time number, "Gay Nineties"; "Blue Sails," "Over the Hills and Far Away"; "New Colonial March."

All hope is not lost for the others who stay in town and who, of course, have their own weather meals, while the family spends the holidays at the cottage.

In a series of August broadcasts in the Maritimes from Halifax, Graham Allen, a Halifax newspaper editor, interviews a group of fellow-sufferers—summer beach-ers who don't bemoan their fate over the air, instead they discuss and exchange their favorite recitals in the hopes that other men in the profession may take heed and keep themselves well-fed while the wife's away.

TRAIN GIVEN TICKET FOR PARKING

ATLANTA, Aug. 12.—(AP)—A conductor got tagged for parking his railroad train too long at a crossing.

But it wasn't his fault. The train was stuck and he just couldn't get it to move until he called in assistance.

Judge Luke Arnold took all these things into consideration yesterday and suspended a $12 parking fine levied on W. L. Boyd of Montgomery, Ala. Atlanta and West Point railroad conductors.

The parking ticket was clapped on the freight train several days ago. The police said traffic was blocked for 30 or 40 minutes.

MUSIC
Air Command bandmaster W.O. Carl Friberg will conduct the band.

Program will include: "Colonel Bogey On Parade," "Tossin' and Turnin'," "Lover's Lane," "Dottie Polka," duet by trombonists Horrocks and Kerr; Strauss' "A Hunting Scene"; Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz"; Camarata's "Humboldt"; Sousa's "Semper Parado"; "Army of the Nile"; selection of Cole Porter songs; "American Patrol"; "Crushing Down the River"; an old-time number, "Gay Nineties"; "Blue Sails," "Over the Hills and Far Away"; "New Colonial March."

All hope is not lost for the others who stay in town and who, of course, have their own weather meals, while the family spends the holidays at the cottage.

In a series of August broadcasts in the Maritimes from Halifax, Graham Allen, a Halifax newspaper editor, interviews a group of fellow-sufferers—summer beach-

ers who don't bemoan their fate over the air, instead they discuss and exchange their favorite recitals in the hopes that other men in the profession may take heed and keep themselves well-fed while the wife's away.

SUMMER DOG DAYS CAN BE FUN—JUST RELAX AND ENJOY THE SUN

shouldn't pose any problem for enterprising city folks who love out-of-doors. Just scupper down to nearest swimming pool, park, golf course or river bank. You'll find Edmonton's naturally beautiful setting surpasses that of almost any other city you might see. If you find the heat and mosquitoes a little annoying, remember that in less than three months you won't have either.

BATHING BEAUTIES BASK IN AUGUST SUN

HOTTTEST DAYS of the year don't bother these two Edmonton girls, Mrs. Bruce Tiffin, Manding, and Mrs. Murray Shier. Best place to keep cool is by the water and best way to do it is to don a bathing suit. City abounds with cool places such as this one by White Mud Creek, one of the most popular swimming spots in town.

VERDANT VALLEY IS CITY'S FRONT YARD

WHAT BETTER WAY to spend a lazy afternoon than to relax with a tall, frosted drink by the broad-green valley of the Saskatchewan? With beauty spots such as this in Edmonton, there's no need to find relaxation in far-away places. So thank these two young brides, Mrs. Donald Marshall, left, and Mrs.
Joe J. Smith.

SLOUGH, TREES AND A MEADOW

HEAVES UP TANK

Lightning Plays Prank On Gasoline

WETASKIWIN, Aug. 13.—Lightning plays queer and fantastic tricks. In the big storm of Sunday evening it ploughed up the earth and heaved up a big underground gas tank on the farm of Clifford Zilke, three miles west and a mile south of Wetaskiwin.

The filling necks of the tank were sticking above the ground two or three feet. Mr. Zilke, though at home, did not notice any particularly loud peal of thunder and knew nothing about it until after the storm was over.

Strangely enough, while the gas tank was nearly full of gasoline it was not set on fire by the lightning, which apparently played all around and underneath it. The tank itself suffered no damage.

Tours Oilfield

DEVON, Aug. 13.—Another visit to the Leduc oilfield and Devon was General Jones of the U.S. Army Air Force. The general was accompanied by Wing Commander Warren, ICAF, both of whom were taken on a tour of the field by A. L. La Berge of Imperial Oil Limited.

Before starting out on their tour of the field, they called on V. M. Hunter, district field superintendent, who arranged a computer guide for them.

Their travels around the field took them to one of the battery sites, a drilling well location and several other field locations, all of which proved to be of interest to the two gentlemen.

File With a Comb Not Apt to Roam

By Ken Liddell
Provincial News Editor

It is not often that I delve into the realm of inventing things—apart from excises—but after giving my head a thoughtful scratch I have come to the conclusion that a fortune awaits the guy who produces a man's pocket comb which a maid can use at the end of it.

Look at all the houses the restaurant people would save in the number of toothpicks that would not be taken by fellows who can't keep track of their nail file and are inclined to put such lunch counter lumber to such a necessary purpose.

Unlike the feminine of the species, man must depend upon such things in an emergency.

Fellow would look silly taking a pin from his hair to clean his fingernails.

This matter of cleaning your fingernails—if the whole thing makes you sick go read something else, you asked you to come in, anyway—is worthy of great study.

There are some fellows who clean their nails with a broken match stick.

Some people use a toothpick as a comb.

Society Expects Exhibit Record At Olds Fair

OLDS, Aug. 13.—Executive of the Olds Agricultural society expects a record number of exhibitors for the 40th annual fair since never before have so many applications been received so early.

The financial success of the fair the last few years has enabled the society to make many improvements such as old barns being torn down, new fences around the race track, new paddock inside the houses, exhibited animals in enclosures, and a new band stand has been built.

Ed Neighbour, president of the society, expects a record number of exhibitors for the 40th annual fair since never before have so many applications been received so early.

DISC JOCKEY DISCOVERS COPS RIGHT ON JOB

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 12.—(UPI)—A Wichita radio disc jockey proved the efficiency of the police department. His records became stolen. Instead of playing music he played a crime program record which appeared with this: "Okay, Bud, this is a stick."

He caught the error there and substituted the music record. But in less than 10 minutes the police showed up ready for sticking control action.

Canada Has Best Jets, Poor Tanks

Survey Reveals Anti-Sub Craft Good; Vehicles Lag

By Norman Macleod

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(UP)—Canada's new armed services are leading the world in jet interceptors, aircraft, and anti-submarine naval craft, but are lagging in tank and armored vehicle development, a British United Press survey revealed today.

Highlight of the survey was the Defence Department's decision that a new maritime air squadron is in the planning stage and is expected to be in operation by the end of the year off the Atlantic.

Commented after the famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police Command of the last war, the new air arm will be equipped with a new type of aircraft, and will function as a watchdog reconnaissance force.

FROM HALIFAX

It will probably operate from Halifax.

Steadily speaking, stockpiling of weapons development among the armed services, yielded a different picture.

In the light of the fact that the light equipment of the armed services emphasized Exercise Eagle was not intended as an exercise in showing power, but as a show of force.

Defence Department officials said Canada's defence program was to be governed by two basic principles.

1. That as a nation of 12,000,000 people, Canada cannot create an armed force capable of defeating a powerful enemy. Therefore, she should specialize in providing some of the strategic services contributing to striking power.

2. That in any attack upon this continent, Canada would not be governed by two basic principles.

Smooth Smugglers Secrete Diamonds on Liner Hulls

Race Entries

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UP)—British Customs authorities today investigated a report that ingenious smugglers, working with divers in New York harbor, have attached packets of diamonds to the hulls of European-bound liners.

To combat the wave of jewel robberies and multimillion-dollar smuggling which has swept all Europe since the war, British officials said they plan to use war-trained "frog men" to search hulls for contraband.

A formal naval officer tipped them off to reports that smugglers were attaching parcels of diamonds and narcotics to the hulls by the same methods used to attach "snake bombs" to enemy ships during the war.

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—Canada's Civil Service, now well above a massive 125,000 mark was booming even higher in the post-election expansion.

Government departments in Ottawa this week frankly were admitting intentions of cutting down on staffs if they ever had decided—now were going by the board.

Such departments as Mines, Agriculture, Health, Fisheries, Finance, and others were planning on taking on new responsibilities in the next year.

About the only offices in the Public Service where a recession was possible were in DVA (Veterans Affairs) and some drop-out bucket defense jobs.

Veterans Affairs was easing off on its hiring and coming within the major part of surplus reduction completed. But the big cuts were in the defense side.

At the same time, despite the fact that the Civil Service was increasing in size, it was being increasingly hard to get into the government.

With times getting back to normal, the Civil Service Commission's big recruiting drives which had taken in the universities and even high schools across the country had provided a big backlog of Civil Service recruits.

So the Commission was tightening up its standards, demanding higher qualifications for candidates for government jobs.

When clerks were hard to get, the government had to give Grade I ratings for what were actually Grade I qualifications in not more than a few cases.

With a bigger labor market, the same jobs were being classified as Grade I with correspondingly lower salaries.

Then departments which usually are fairly accurate index of conditions, lost office men and women.

Next year, Post Office staffs were still at their normal peak, handling continuously heavy mail; and Customs was finding business just as good as ever.

Parliament just wouldn't be the same.

Dr. Arthur Beauchamp, Chief of the House of Commons and speaker, stayed for 21 years of Parliamentary procedure this week called it a day.

At 72, Dr. Beauchamp was some eight years beyond the Civil Service age of retirement, but he had remained on the job through the war and after.

On Parliament Hill, Dr. Beauchamp had been the last of the old guard in front of the throne.

The rules on procedure had affected the House of Commons and the House of Lords, and the House of Commons had been in a period of transition.

KEEP HATS ON MEN, ADVISE ELEVATOR GIRLS

WHITELAND, W. Va., Aug. 13.—(UPI)—Over-politeness elevator girls here say should take a one-way ride to the basement.

In a survey of operators in the downtown district, it was learned they think men should wait for women to take the elevator car first. It slows up traffic. Men also should leave their hats on. It takes up less room and the headpieces are always sagging that way.

Chivalry? In today's speeded-up tempo it's silly, the elevator girls said.

Canada Home Building Soars

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(UPI)—Homes are still going up in Canada to meet that ever-present housing shortage.

Without introduction or icing, let me give you the story of Cafeteria Charlie, while other men aspire to be President four times, yearned to be an Alderman—just once.

About a year ago, a young little man began hanging out in the cafeteria of a town on the east coast of Florida, who, in deference to the Chamber of Commerce, had no name.

Day after day he would park himself near the entrance where the checks were given out, and welcome the customers with the grin of a professional host.

"Let me get a party of five," he would say, "and I'll clean up and waiting for you over in the corner. You get a table and get your food—I'll mind your seats. By the way, my name's Charlie and I'm running for Alderman in the next election. Garbage disposal stations had, and I'm to be something about it. Can I get you some more cole slaw?"

NICKNAME

Naturally, it wasn't long before patrons and press had nicknamed him "Cafeteria Charlie" and the usual jokes were being told about his political aspirations.

But sure enough when the list of candidates was posted, Cafeteria Charlie's name was on the ballot. There are no primaries in this town and the little man had scraped his way to the top.

As Election Day drew near, the little man disappeared. He was in the city hall, waiting for the voters to come.

Truman Told Russ Soon To Unseat Tito

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UPI)—President Truman has been warned that Russia may try to overthrow the Marshal Tito regime in Yugoslavia within the next eight weeks.

The London Daily Mail said today in a dispatch from Washington.

The dispatch was written by Daily Mail correspondent Ralph Lizard. He said the warning to President Truman was made in a report prepared by U.S. Military Intelligence.

"The overthrow attempt will be made by infiltrating Yugoslavia with Soviet agents and dissuading troops and by encouraging internal revolution," the dispatch said.

The Daily Mail hammered its story with the headline: "KMMU 49 Force," prepared for President Truman's signature. State department officials said he will sign it immediately after the ratification by France is deposited here.

SEALED DOCUMENT

A French embassy spokesman said the sealed document announced that the Soviet Union had notified the United States of the ratification of the document by the Soviet Union.

The treaty requires that ratification of the seven powers which signed the treaty negotiations be deposited here before the pact becomes effective. The Netherlands ratification certificate was turned in yesterday. France's certificate is the only one outstanding of the original seven.

The president's proclamation will mean that nine nations are immediately bound together by the treaty's mutual defense provisions, although all 16 nations have not ratified it. Certificates of ratification have not yet been received from Denmark, Italy and Portugal.

The treaty will automatically come into effect when their certificates are deposited.

CHAPERONS FINALLY GONE

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(UPI)—British Girls' Guide celebrated its 100th anniversary in May and women were invited to the students for the "good old days."

Even properly as the Bedford College for Women, it is one of the oldest and most famous schools for undergraduate and graduate women students.

Mrs. Georgeanne Gray of Quebec, who graduated from Bedford College for Women, Ph.D., was one of the 30 Commonwealth students at the college.

No longer are the lectures given by "visitors" and "visiting professors" as in the corridors with their students.

When the college was founded in 1842 by a Mrs. Bedford, it was informally but not officially, "The first women's college in the world."

The college was founded to save young women "from the dangers of the world" and to give them a "good education."

Conferences were intended only to achieve "the elevation of the moral and intellectual character of women and to give them an improved state of society."

Young ladies were chaperoned by married women "of a superior of advanced years" until 1890 when the "lady visitors" ceased to exist.

Until the turn of the century professors were not allowed to teach in the college. The college's history says the central hall where students congregated was "a place of great interest and beauty, and it was here that the college's history was written."

A SECRET FEAST

It was a quiet afternoon in the Teenie Weenie village. Beams of sunshine streamed through the rose bushes overhead and fell in golden green splashes on the moss-covered ground. Only the hum of bees broke the quiet and even the Dunce, who is hardly ever quiet, lay in silence on a shady spot of moss.

"What's the matter with you?" asked the Sailor, who had been wondering at the Dunce's silence.

"I—was just thinkin' about that big ripe strawberry over in Grandma Pettigob's garden."

"Jinks!" exclaimed the Sailor. "I've been thinkin' about that berry, too."

"Now don't you fellows get to talkin' about that strawberry or the first we know you'll be gettin' us into a peck of trouble," Gogo warned. "The General is powerful set against us takin' things that don't belong to us."

"It would be all right to take that strawberry," said the Dunce. "Didn't Grandma Pettigob's cat take our fish?"

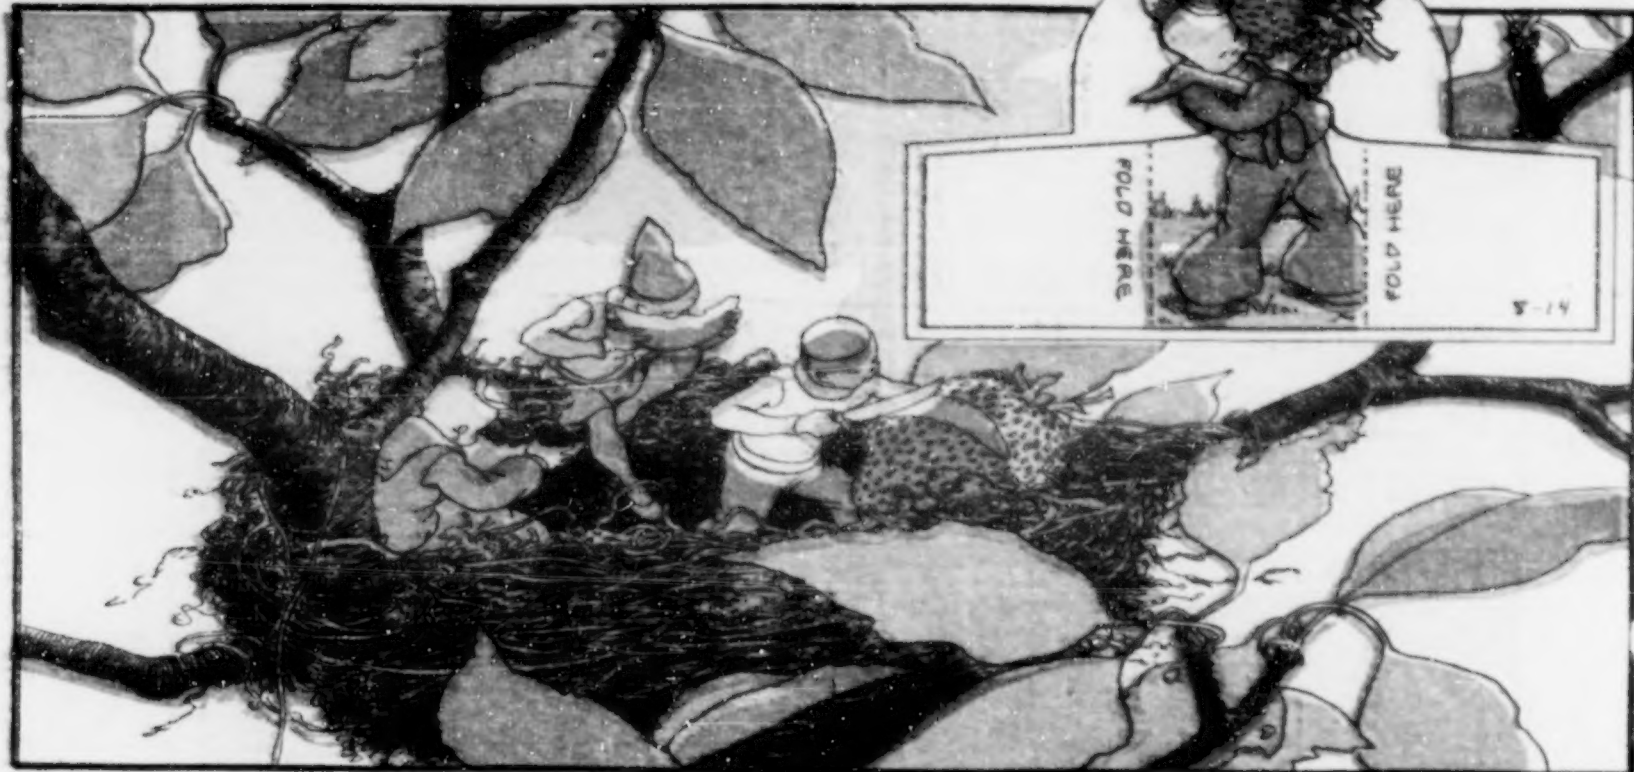

The Sailor nodded his head in agreement and the Dunce went on. "We can take that strawberry in payment for the fish."

The Sailor agreed with the Dunce, but it took a great deal of talk to win Gogo's consent to take part in the scheme. His mouth fairly watered over the thought of a nice, big slice of strawberry and finally he agreed to take part in the raid on Grandma's strawberry patch.

They hung around the shoe house until they saw the Cook stroll over to the old teapot where the

The TEENIE WEEENIES

Teenie Weenie Chinaman lives. The Dunce took one more look at the front porch to be sure the Teenie Weenie women were still busy with their sewing. Then the three conspirators ducked into the kitchen, got the Cook's biggest knife and set off for Grandma Pettigob's garden.

When the Dunce cut the berry off the vine the Sailor boosted it onto his shoulder and the three Teenie Weenies set off to find a quiet place to eat it. Finally they decided to climb up into a deserted bird's nest that hung in a bush near by. They pulled the strawberry up to the nest with a string and Gogo cut big slices out of the berry.

The little chaps ate until their tiny tummies were as plump as pea pods and of course they couldn't eat a bite of supper that night. This caused the General to question them. They admitted taking the strawberry and for punishment the General ordered the Cook not to give the three guilty Teenie Weenies any dessert for a week.
